

FLOWSIDE - MEDIA COOPERATIONS

Flowside is a german startup for international media cooperations. Our vision is to build a sustainable and independent platform that revolutionizes the educational task of public media and offers more than entertainment. We are aiming for premium content and responsible partnerships and present a wide range of content in entertainment, education and reporting, together with independent producers, scientific institutions, cooperation partners and existing video platforms.

On our platform, customers are able to discover new things, develop both personally and professionally and make their free time more fulfilling. Our goal is to revolutionize television by providing multilingual, tailor-made channels and a place where people can exchange and discuss issues that are important to them. We want you to waste less time looking for information and entertainment, and to be inspired by all the amazing stories out there.